

real magnets repel less than the point-dipole law at short range

